Tuition

The table below reflects standard graduate tuition rates for the 2024–2025 academic year (which are reviewed and likely to increase next year). Graduate programs in the MIT Sloan School of Management have their own tuition rates (p. 4). Certain other graduate programs, such as the Real Estate Development master's program and the master's programs in Supply Chain Management, also employ “non-standard” tuition (p. 4). Special students (p. 4) and visiting students (p. 4) should refer to the tuition and fee information specific to them.

Full regular graduate tuition (including graduate student staff), per term, fall and spring*	$30,995
Doctoral students approved for non-resident tuition, first three semesters†	$1,550
Doctoral students approved for non-resident tuition, subsequent semesters†	$4,650
Off-campus internship tuition (30% of maximum tuition charge)	$10,850

*Full tuition in either term of the current year covers the January Independent Activities Period.

†Following completion of the nonresident period, the student must return to resident status for completion and presentation of the doctoral thesis. If the student requires only part of this first term back in residence to complete the thesis, the tuition will be adjusted subject to a minimum of $15,500. Consult Graduate Policies and Procedures for additional information on nonresident status.

If the student was registered for thesis as a resident student in the immediately preceding term, regular or summer, tuition for thesis will be adjusted after acceptance by the department of the completed document on the basis of a charge of $2,580 per week from the starting date of the term, with a minimum of $2,580 for the master's or engineer's degree and $5,150 for the doctoral degree. If the immediately preceding term was the summer term and if the graduate student was not registered for thesis in that summer term, but was registered for thesis in residence in the previous second term, the minimum tuition for thesis is $15,500.

Key points:

- Tuition for thesis students is based on registration and residency status. The Registrar's Office provides further tuition information by academic year (<https://registrar.mit.edu/registration-academics/tuition-fees>).
- Resident graduate students making progress toward a degree are expected to register as and are considered full-time students.

Tuition is prorated (<https://registrar.mit.edu/registration-academics/tuition-fees/pro-ration>) if a student withdraws early.

- A student who continues to hold a fellowship, traineeship, or graduate staff appointment for the remainder of the term after delivery of the thesis is still considered a full-time student and tuition will not be adjusted. In unusual circumstances, the Office of Graduate Education may set special tuition rates for graduate students.
- Students in approved programs registering for thesis work or other approved research subjects in the summer are eligible for a summer tuition subsidy (p. 3).
- Students who are permitted to undertake nonresident thesis research must register as nonresident doctoral candidates. Following completion of the nonresident period, the student must return to resident status for completion and presentation of the doctoral thesis. If the student requires only part of this first term back in residence to complete the thesis, the tuition will be adjusted subject to a minimum of $15,500. Consult Graduate Policies and Procedures for additional information on nonresident status (<http://oge.mit.edu/gpp/degrees/thesis/nonres>). The minimum term tuition charge for registration for doctoral thesis upon readmission as a resident student is $46,490 if not registered during the preceding regular term.

The tuition for all regular graduate students, including fellows, trainees, and academic staff in the 2024 summer session was $21,415.

- A number of miscellaneous fees (p.) may apply each term, unrelated to tuition.
- For more detailed information regarding the cost of attendance, including specific costs for tuition and fees, books and supplies, housing and food as well as transportation, please visit the SFS website.

Cooperative and Practice-School Programs

Cooperative and practice-school programs offered by MIT provide industrial and research experience through a series of work assignments interwoven with regular study at the Institute. The tuition fees for these programs are the same as those for regular graduate students.

Cooperative and practice-school program tuition, per term, fall and spring, 2024–2025

Chemical Engineering Practice School, Course 10-A	$30,995
Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, Course 6-A	$30,995

Summer Tuition Subsidy

Graduate students who are enrolled in a research degree program and who are not taking subjects are eligible to have their summer tuition subsidized from Institute general funds. The subsidy applies to new or continuing graduate students in normal resident status during the preceding spring term, and who are only registered for thesis or pre-thesis research credit during the summer session.

Key points:

- Graduate students who register for other summer subjects will be charged tuition on a per unit basis up to the maximum tuition. This tuition may not be charged to research grants.
- Students registering for summer internship subjects are not eligible and will be charged the per unit rate, up to a maximum of four units.

Full details on the Summer Tuition Subsidy (<https://registrar.mit.edu/registration-academics/tuition-fees/graduate/summer-tuition-subsidy>) are available online. Email the Registrar's Office (records@mit.edu) with questions about the subjects that currently qualify as thesis or pre-thesis in each department.

Graduate students who are enrolled in a research program, and who are not taking courses, will have their summer tuition subsidized (<https://registrar.mit.edu/registration-academics/tuition-fees/graduate/summer-tuition-subsidy>) (that is, paid from other Institute resources).

Special Student Tuition

Special students are non-degree students who are taking classes at MIT for personal or professional reasons.

Key points:

- Graduate special students, including Sloan students, should contact the Advanced Study Program (<https://professional.mit.edu/programs/advanced-study-program/admissions-faq>) for information about admission and tuition rates.
- There are additional miscellaneous fees (p.) associated with registering at MIT.

Visiting Student Fees

Students who are pursuing a degree at an institution of higher education other than MIT and have been invited by faculty in an MIT department, laboratory, or center to do research here may apply for visiting student status. Current regular or special MIT students, or MIT students who have withdrawn or are on a leave of absence, are not eligible.

Visiting students are subject to a monthly fee that includes registration, MIT's Student Health Insurance Plan (SHIP) (<https://catalog.mit.edu/mit/graduate-education/medical-requirements>), and student life fees. The fee entitles visiting students to conduct research, use our fitness facilities, participate in student life programming, and have access to care at MIT Medical. Full monthly fees are charged regardless of whether the student starts on the first or the 15th of the month. The total fee for the duration of their stay must be paid in full and in advance. Additional costs will be applied for those who wish to enroll family members in SHIP.

Withdrawal

A student withdrawing before the start of a term is not charged any tuition for that term and any tuition payments previously made for that term will be refunded. Students withdrawing during the fall or spring term are charged one-twelfth of the stated tuition for the term for each week from the starting date of the term, with a minimum two-week charge. A student must pay full tuition and fees at the beginning of the term. Any subsequent reduction in fees is based on the date that cancellation of a subject or withdrawal from the Institute is effected. At that time, any excess payments which the student has made will be refunded.
